Stay-In Exercise Notice – 2019 September 30

At Canadian Nuclear Laboratories, the CRL Emergency Preparedness Team is committed to ensuring a safe and secure site, while maintaining our priorities of nuclear safety, public safety, employee safety, environmental safety, business operations and reputation.

As part of our Five Year Drill and Exercise Plan, we are required to exercise a complete site-wide response to a Stay-In alarm.

CNL Emergency Preparedness, with the assistance of an Exercise Design Team, will be conducting this exercise Monday, 2019 September 30th 2019, at approximately 09:00 hrs.

The exercise will involve a full scale Stay-In response of all CRL emergency responders and the participation of all CRL staff, visitors and contractors in practicing their Building Emergency Procedures. For most employees, visitors and contract staff, exercise participation will run from approximately 9:00 a.m. until 10:00 a.m. For those with a direct role in the exercise (such as emergency responders, Emergency Operations Centre's, Crisis Management Team and additional emergency response centres). Specific participation times will be communicated throughout player, controller and evaluator briefings closer to the exercise.

The exercise will also involve many external stakeholders, partners and services outside of CNL.

- During the hour of complete site-wide participation, everyone will be expected to STOP and LISTEN to siren annunciations and follow the directions of emergency responders, including building/facility Officers-In Charge and Emergency Stewards as per the Building Emergency Procedures.
- If for any reason you feel you should be exempted from this exercise, please coordinate directly with your CNL Sponsor
